

Chairman's Message

It's Now Our Watch

JAMES D. EDWARDS, DC

On Sept. 1, I accepted the honor of becoming the 23rd person to serve as chairman of the ACA Board of Governors. I follow in the footsteps of great leaders and am truly fortunate to have consulted or worked with half of my predecessors, including Drs. Van Mericas, Devere Biser, Harold Kieffer, Robert Jackson, Ronald Harris, Shelby Elliott, Louis Sportelli, Kerwin Winkler, Lowry Morton, Edward Maurer, and J. Michael Flynn. I owe each of them a huge debt of gratitude for giving me the benefit of their experience and wisdom.

In this first message to the membership as chairman, I would like to share my views on the responsibilities of being a doctor of chiropractic by taking a proud look back into our past and discussing this profession's greatest need by looking forward to our future.

Our Responsibility

The profession of chiropractic is here today because the first generation of chiropractors was willing to make sacrifices when chiropractic needed them. In those early days, DCs were willing to go to jail on behalf of the profession they loved.

Think about that; 80 to 90 years later it may not seem like such a big deal—but it was. I have thought many times about what it must have been like for those doctors to hear the cell door clang shut and not know how long they would be there. I have tried to imagine how difficult it must have been explaining to their children why the police had taken their fathers or mothers to jail.

Many times I have asked myself if I would have had the intestinal fortitude to have done that and if I would have disobeyed the law and stood firm to protect this profession in its time of need.

At that particular time, it was their "watch." Those early DCs were responsible for what happened to chiropractic, and their commitment ensured that future generations would have this wonderful healing art. They paid the price during their "watch," and because they did, chiropractic survived.

The problem today is that too many doctors of chiropractic think that this healing art belongs to doctors of chiropractic. Well, it doesn't belong to us. It never has, and it never will. Chiropractic belongs to humanity; we are merely its caretakers for this particular generation, at this particular time.

What we do with it, how we preserve it, how we defend it, how we protect it, and how we nurture it will affect many generations to come. In the final analysis, our primary responsibility is to take chiropractic and pass it on to the next generation better and stronger than it was when we received it.

When your career is completed, I hope you will be able to look back and see that in some small way, chiropractic is better and stronger because of your efforts during your "watch"—that you were able to help pass it on to the next generation in better shape than it was when you received it. That is certainly what motivates me on a daily basis.

To every ACA dues-paying member, PAC supporter, and Legal Action Fund contributor, I want to salute you for doing your part. It is your continued support that has allowed the ACA volunteer leadership, along with the 40 dedicated men and women who serve on the ACA staff, to accomplish victory after victory after victory on behalf of you and your patients.

Our Greatest Need

In my opinion, chiropractic's first century (or so) will be remembered as the "100-Year War." This profession not only fought (and continues to fight) the AMA, it fought (and continues to fight) battles among its own practitioners and associations. We continue to circle the wagons and shoot inward, and that simply must stop if we are ever going to mature as a profession.

It is time for the leaders of this profession to say, "Enough is enough," and take bold steps to stop the infighting. It's time for leaders of this profession to accentuate what we agree upon, rather than focus on the small things that divide us. It's time for the leadership to do the right thing for the profession without regard to how individual leaders might be affected politically. And it's time for self-serving leaders to stop using this profession to advance their personal and economic agendas.

Under the outstanding leadership of past ACA Chairman J. Michael Flynn, DC, the ACA has successfully built bridges toward nearly every element of the profession. During that process, ancient myths and misconceptions about the ACA were addressed and corrected. I think you will be pleased to know that every agreement reached was accomplished without straying one inch from official ACA policies and positions. You will also be pleased to know that the ACA never once wavered from its steadfast commitment to direct-access, full-scope, diagnosis-required, physician-status chiropractic!

Although some continue to say that a split profession is good for chiropractic—likening it to having Democratic and Republican parties—they are simply wrong. When the United States goes to war, we do not go to war as Republicans or Democrats. We go to war as Americans, and we fight under one flag.

That's what we are called to do now because this profession is at war. And it is a war that is being fought by the ACA on many different fronts.

The ACA is at war in the courts with Trigon Blue Cross/Blue Shield for severely limiting reimbursement for and access to chiropractic care. The ACA is at war in the courts with the federal government to overturn the HCFA policy that allows the chiropractic benefit to be delivered by non-chiropractors. The ACA is at war legislatively to ensure that active military personnel and veterans have access to chiropractic care and that Medicare beneficiaries receive reimbursement for services authorized by state law.

It is time for this profession to end the civil war that has pitted our brothers and sisters against one another for so long. It is time for this profession to stop wasting our limited resources on needless duplication of services. It is time to start speaking with one voice. It is time for this profession to fight under the flag that the ACA has hoisted so high! ▼

*JAMES D. EDWARDS, DC
ACA CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD*

*Please email comments or questions to:
JamesEdwards@JamesEdwards.com*

Ease Medicare Billing and Documentation Hassles

ACA's NEW Medicare Solutions Manual includes everything you need to understand the ins and outs of Medicare. The manual is the only one sold that is chiropractic-specific and includes:

- An overview of the Medicare program (with information on the qualifications of chiropractors)
- Provider status
- Local medical review policies (LMRPs)
- The role of the Chiropractor Carrier Advisory Committee (CCAC), Medicare Benefits and Payment Formulas, HCFA Carriers and Intermediaries
- The range of Medicare coverage, billing and claims review, documentation, fraud and abuse, advocacy of your Medicare rights, and other commonly asked questions
- An appendix of Medicare documentation (with HCFA correspondence and policy clarifications that have been sent to the ACA) that will be invaluable to your practice
- Much more!

Don't Delay. Order your single source for Medicare solutions today. This manual is one of a kind and cannot be found anywhere but at the ACA. Call 800/368-3083 to order Item MSM1.

ACA member price: $34.95
Non-member price: $59.95

PLUS: Order ACA's Medicare Solutions Manual and ACA's Official Chiropractic Coding Solutions 2001 booklet and get an additional 15 % discount. Item MSM-CPTK1. To order, call 800/368-3083.

ACA member price for both books: $59.39
Non-member price: $101.89

ACA. Your solutions start here.